'Walk By-Law Lost On Second Reading

Newmarket—A by-law to prevent merchants from using part of the sidewalks to display their wares was defeated on the second reading in Newmarket town council Monday night by a 5-4 vote.

The by-law would have rescinded an existing by-law which allows merchants to use up to 18 inches of sidewalk space for displaying their wares. Although in existence for nearly 50 years, there is no recollection of it ever having been enforced recently.

The by-law was defeated over Mayor Vale's protests that the sidewalks of Newmarket are too narrow to permit even 18 inches of walk to be used for display. "What are we going to have now?" he asked. "The police walking up and down Main St. with a ruler in their hands?"

The by-law had earlier been considered but laid aside by council. "Our objection earlier was that there was no enforcement of the existing by-law (18-inch display)," said Councillor Thomas Birrell. "If it had been enforced it would have been alright. What is the use of having laws if they are not enforced?"

The new by-law also prohibited the selling of goods on the sidewalks and was aimed at the practice of selling out of trucks parked on Main St. Some councillors objected that it would be impossible to prevent merchants from selling on the street. "You can't stop selling on the sidewalks any more than you can stop customers looking in the windows," said Councillor H. J. Luck.

The by-law applied to the streets leading off Main St. as well as Main St. itself. It did have a section to permit the use of sidewalks for sorting and moving goods into the stores.

Councillor R. C. Morrison said that if the old by-law were enforced it would serve the purpose. "It is not practical," Mayor Vale contended. "The law is too stringent," Councillor Frank Bowser insisted.

"The sidewalks of Newmarket are too narrow to permit any encroachment on them," Mayor Vale replied. He cited instances where he had received complaints that women with baby carriages had been forced to use the road to get away.

COUNCIL CHAMBERS EMPTIED BY ALARM

Newmarket—As a climax to the debate over the parking by-law, the fire whistle blew and the council chambers were emptied in a trice as members hastened to the fire. Councillor Frank Bowser, a stalwart of the fire brigade, led the rush to the door and had the engine of the fire truck going before the other councillors reached the sidewalk.

Clerk Wesley Brooks earlier provided a welcome interruption when returning from a search of the files for a required document, he brought in some soft drinks for the council which was sweltering in a room heated several degrees above the outside temperature.

Funds Sought For West-Side Playground

Aurora—Under the leadership of Councillor Thomas Swindle, a drive for funds to provide a playground for small children on the west side of Yonge St. has started and is meeting with enthusiastic success.

The playground is located on the property of Erle Quinn, Tyler St., and "the project is being developed to demonstrate the value of local playgrounds to provide good, healthy fun and enjoyment for the children and keep them off the street."

Traffic conditions in this area are very hazardous for small children playing on the streets. Why wait for a tragedy? Let us do something now," said Mr. Swindle.

Contributions for the funds are being accepted by the Bank of Montreal, the Imperial Bank, Marshall Rank and Mr. Swindle. A statement of receipts and expenditures will be published in the press in due time. As those interested are anxious to proceed to purchase needed equipment without delay, an immediate response is requested from those interested.

It is hoped through the success of "the Pansy Hill" local playground scheme that several more will be established throughout the municipality for the use of the smaller children.

REPORT LOOSE DOGS
TO POLICE — MAYOR

Newmarket—The town council Monday night heard complaints against the growth of weeds and damage done by dogs which, according to by-law, should be tied up during the summer months.

The shortage of help was cited as the reason for the unlimited growth of weeds and the property committee was asked to hire extra men to do the cutting. As to loose dogs, Mayor Joseph Vale's advice was to report loose dogs to the police for action against their owners.

G. L. BOYNTON ON P.S. BOARD

Newmarket—G. L. Boynton, Pleasantview Ave., was appointed school trustee for the remainder of the year at the meeting of the Newmarket public school board on Friday night. He replaces C. Morden Carter whose resignation was accepted at the meeting. Mr. Carter said he was resigning because of the pressure of business.

According to the public schools act, the appointment of a public school trustee is to be made by the board at its next regular meeting after the meeting at which the resignation of one of its members is accepted.

The appointment of Mrs. C. Morden Carter as school attendance officer was also ratified at the meeting. She succeeds Mrs. O. P. Hamilton who resigned from the position in June. At that time Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Allen J. Cody both applied for the position and each was nominated. A ballot was called for and two members voted for each nominee. Mr. Carter was not present at that meeting.

Mr. Carter intimated in June that he intended to resign from the board but had not yet submitted his resignation. At that time the deciding ballot was cast in favor of Mrs. Carter as attendance officer "provided that Mr. Carter submits his resignation." The matter was then left in abeyance.

Fire Destroys Two Barns Shortly After Threshing

About 4,000 bushels of grain, 30 pigs, ten calves and a two-year-old bull were lost when the barn of Ivan Kay burned to the ground last Thursday at his farm a mile and a half south of Pleasantville. Mr. Barker left the hospital the same evening but Mrs. Barker remained. Hospital authorities asked to get in touch with Miss Robinson.

The season's crop had been threshed the same morning and it was entirely destroyed in the fire. Mr. Kay said that the barn was well covered with insurance.

The fire started between 3 and 4 p.m. Mrs. Norman Kay, Mr. Kay's mother, said she was working in the garden and first saw the flames in the straw stack at the north end of the barn.

Mr. Barker left the hospital the same evening but Mrs. Barker remained. Hospital authorities asked to get in touch with Miss Robinson.

Threshing had been completed at the Barker farm except for some oats and the whole crop was lost in the fire.

A gasoline engine was the cause of the fire which started around 6:30 in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Barker and Ronnie Dicks who lives with them were milking on the ground floor.

The gas engine was turned on to pump in water to the stock and gasoline around it caught fire.

They battled the blaze for some minutes and almost had it extinguished but sparks had gone through the cracks in the boards to the floor above and ignited the hay.

Mrs. Barker was burned when her clothes caught fire during the attempt to put out the blaze and Mr. Barker received burns on the hands and leg when he carried out a burning cart of hay.

Both Newmarket and Aurora fire crews were called to the Kay farm and the Aurora pump truck was used, getting its water from the well near the barn. The Newmarket fire truck had engine trouble on the way out and was unable to reach the fire. The new fire truck on order for several months is expected by the end of the month.

There was threshing that day at the nearby farms of Angus Cameron, Lorne Mahoney and Bill Hamilton and several men from these farms together with a crew from Sharon removed implements from the barn and shed which also burned. All the stock was saved except a pig and a few hens.

After the hay started burning there was nothing to do to stop it. In describing the fire, Arthur Kydd, who came from one of the threshings, said "We took out the wagon through the barn doors and went right back to get a pulley but in the short time it took us to get back to the doors everything was in flames and we couldn't get in." He said that they got the pigs out of the barn but had a time keeping them from running back into the fire. One pig was lost this way.

The object of this demonstration is to encourage dependable and conscientious young men to join the squadron and bring it up to reserve army strength. Any young man, 18 years or over, who would like the opportunity of seeing and riding in the latest Sherman tank may do so on Sunday.

Squadron starts its fall and winter training today at the Aurora Armories. Any young man who is interested or desirous of enlisting in the squadron is welcome at 8 p.m. any Tuesday or Thursday night at the armories.

The training will be very intensive and falls into four main groups, basic training, tank driving and maintenance, wireless sending, receiving, and maintenance, and gunnery. This training will be carried out under experienced instructors.

New Parking By-Law Given Rough Passage

Newmarket—Amendments to the traffic by-law which would prohibit parking on Thursday, Friday and Saturday on the east side of Main St. were left neither approved nor formally rejected by the Newmarket town council Monday night as the fire whistle brought a hasty adjournment of the meeting.

The amendments to the by-law had been introduced by the chairman of the police committee, Councillor R. C. Morrison, following discussions with the police. The committee has been under some pressure from council "to do something about the congestion on Main St." and the proposed amendments, were the committee's answer.

Briefly, the amendments allow unlimited parking on both sides of Main St. on Sundays, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays and on the west side of Main St. on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays. Parking is prohibited on the east side of Main St. on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays from Water St. to Queen St.

The amendments were brought in at an earlier meeting and minor changes made. The third reading was given Monday night but no vote was taken. Several members voiced objection to the restrictions.

The objections to the proposed regulations were mainly that there was not sufficient alternative parking space for the cars that couldn't park on Main St. It was argued that the effect of the new law would force parking on private property, jam intersections and drive away trade. Purpose Of Amendments

"What does the police committee hope to accomplish by this new law?" asked Deputy-Reeve J. L. Spilliette. "It will clear Main St. to through-traffic and force greater use of available parking space in lots and up the side streets," said Mr. Morrison. He said he had counted only five cars parked behind Trinity United church although Main St. was jammed last Saturday night.

Enforcement of the existing by-law which limits parking to one hour and prohibits double parking was said to be all that is needed. "But it is not enforced," said one member. "Does the council wish me to take the men off the night patrol and put them on traffic duty during the day?" asked Mr. Morrison. There was no answer.

Complaints Of Booksellers Answered By Principal

Newmarket—H. A. Jackson, supervising principal of the three Newmarket public schools, took exception to an article appearing in last week's issue of The Era and Express at the meeting of the public school board on Friday night.

"In the article, the school supply dealers comment on the rush of people on the opening day of school. Mr. Jackson said, "In my opinion, such a condition is to be expected because of the fact that there are 645 public school pupils to serve, in addition to an estimated 370 high school students, or a total of over 1,000 students."

"The theme of the complaint is that if the lists of required books were published sooner, some of the rush would be avoided," he continued. "Actually most people wouldn't purchase their books until the first day of school anyway. Members of the public school staff think that they are charged with lack of co-operation in failing to notify the bookstores beforehand of the pupils' requirements. In my opinion there is no group more anxious to operate than the teachers are, if no other reason than it is of assistance to them in that the pupils will be ready for work immediately."

"The paper quoted me correctly as having said that this year lists outside of the authorized texts could not be given because of the seven new teachers on the staff. I had no idea of the supplementary helps which they would require," he said.

MAKE CHOICE ACCORDING TO MARKETS

As the dollar crisis has developed, there has been strong insistence from various quarters that Canada revise its trade pattern by reducing imports to the United States. That is the only way, it is argued, that Canada can reduce its currently heavy trade deficit with its neighbor.

The alternative is suggested in the plea last week of the Foreign Secretary of Great Britain, Ernest Bevin, for a commonwealth customs union. As a member of such a union, Canada would be obliged to reduce its imports from the United States, buying within the commonwealth those necessities now imported from the south.

The first would have the effect of making Canada more a part of the dollar area than it is. The second would make Canada, as a primary producer, a keystone in the sterling bloc. As it is, Canada has stood squarely between the two blocs, using its trade surplus to sterling countries as a means to reduce its deficit with the major dollar country, United States. That position is no longer tenable with Britain and other sterling countries heavy debtors of the United States.

What Canada will choose to do is open to question. There has been no indication, up to time of writing, of specific policy from Ottawa. Canada could try and maintain its position as third party in its traditional three-way economic pattern, restricting currency movement to the south, devaluating its dollar, seeking exception to the suspension of the pound convertibility clause. Or it may choose to either abandon its economic ties with Great Britain in favor of throwing in with the dollar nations, or else join a commonwealth customs union and the sterling bloc.

The three choices each has much to recommend them; each has its faults. There can be no doubt, however, that a choice will have to be made, and in the making, bring certain hardships as the lesser evils to a complete breakdown, of the national economy. It may be that Ottawa's indecision, its failure to announce a definite policy, has been caused by an inability to distinguish between short-term disadvantages and long-term depression.

Canadians are proud of their political independence. They sometimes confuse it with economic independence. The fact is that Canada, more than any other nation in the world today, is economically dependent on others. Producing from its broad prairies, its vast forests and its limitless mines more than it can ever use at home, Canada must rely upon the markets provided by others for its prosperity.

For Canada to remain solvent, its future markets must be examined both for their durability and their ability to pay. That is plainly Ottawa's first duty. The choice of traditional centre man between dollar and sterling blocs, or either sterling or dollar association, must be made on those findings.

USED BOOKS FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The rush of school children upon booksellers has become a regular, if disturbing, feature of opening day of school. The dealers have given their version of the cause of the rush, and in this issue, Mr. H. A. Jackson, supervising principal of Newmarket public schools, replies.

Without considering the merits of standardizing or keeping flexible those optional study helps on which the teachers exercise individual choice, we think the issue boils down to the very human folly of leaving everything to the last minute. There are many who, no doubt, would purchase their books in advance if given the opportunity. The majority, however, would leave it to the last minute.

In any event, the standardized texts can be purchased ahead of time and if everyone were to do so, the rush would be greatly minimized.

There is one aspect of the textbook situation which hasn't been mentioned. That is ways of reducing the costs to parents of books for two or three children of public school age. The high school has a method of marketing used books. Why couldn't the public schools also handle the sale of those standardized books which are in use year after year?

Possibly the Home and School Association could take over this task, keeping a small commission in return for application to any one of the number of projects they have underway. A saving would be enjoyed by parents during a time of high prices, and extra revenue derived for improvement of the schools.

LESSON FOR EVERYONE

Fires cost two farmers their barns and some of their stock last week. More discouraging, was the loss of their newly-threshed crops. In one instance, threshing had been completed at 10 o'clock in the morning and the fire broke out some five hours after while the owner was helping with the threshing on an adjoining farm.

The loss of crops is not one to be reckoned in money only. An impending feed shortage adds value beyond the current market price, and who can put a charge on the inconvenience, the time-consuming search for scarce feed in later months. And how heart-breaking it is to watch the fruit of the fields so carefully tended to their maturity, sweated over and prayed over in time of drought and rain, consumed by fire.

Every year, millions of dollars damage is done by fire. The unfortunate experience of two distinct farmers should heighten in us all an awareness of the need for caution.

WHY NOT A DEMOCRATIC 'BLOC'?

There was considerable fuss a few days back over the comments on international issues of our governor-general. There was, it seems, grave concern in Ottawa over the propriety of a governor-general speaking his mind before a public audience. However, there has been nothing further in the papers so it appears the matter has been dropped. Rightly so. There need never have been any fuss in the first place. As a people jealous of our right to speak our minds as we wish, why should we make an exception of a governor-general?

Apart from this, Viscount Alexander's comments are worth noting. He is a man of much experience in international affairs and is certainly not one to talk for the pleasure of hearing himself speak. It can be taken for granted that his remarks are well considered, and should be well considered by his listeners.

Viscount Alexander said among other things, that nations which share common backgrounds should unite to the exclusion of others which are antipathetic. It is not a new consideration. Mr. Clarence Streit has been advocating that for years in a series of books which, for the heavyweight of their material, attained a remarkably high number of readers.

It is foolish to insist on agreement where there can be no agreement. In Munich days, such a practice earned the name "appeasement"; a term which was equally applicable to the United States' attitude towards Russia up to the Stuttgart speech of the former secretary of state, Mr. Byrnes, and the subsequent appointment of General Marshall.

There could be no real agreement between Nazi Germany and Great Britain—there was no common tradition, no common background. Equally, there can now be no real agreement between the democracies and Russia for the same reason. Why then, persist in pretending there exists a joint intention? The folly of it becomes all the more obvious when it is remembered how often Russia has exercised the veto in the United Nations council, a practice which if continued will wreck that body.

The average citizen in a democracy has an abhorrence for "blocs", possibly because twice in 20 years, he was called to fight against first the Prussian bloc and then the "Axis". Yet while he denounces the grouping of nations, his leaders are demonstrating agreement with that belief. The Truman Doctrine, for example, is an extension of the British policy; the assumption of that task by the United States as Britain found itself unable to do it, is the action of partners in the same belief.

A democratic bloc including the British Commonwealth and the United States, possesses enough resources to at least make a start on a democratic peace. In such a bloc, while there would be disagreement, there would be no veto to protect the state's assumption of superiority over the individual which has so far delayed progress in international amity.

What Others Think

THE ONE-ROOM SCHOOLHOUSE

(The Financial Post)

From the soft depths of big chairs in city clubs we have several times heard about the passing of the old-time schoolhouse. These country-boys-become-corporation-presidents were looking back proudly on their own heroism in "trudging three miles through the snow and lighting the fire when I got there." The younger generation, say they, has it much easier.

The old one-room schoolhouse is still very much with us, according to a report of the National Committee for School Health Research.

The back-of-the-lot privy, where the youth of the land enlarged its vocabulary and its calligraphical skill, still prevails in 71 percent of the nation's one-room schools. Only three percent have inside flush toilets.

There is no artificial lighting of any kind in 80 percent of the one-rooms; 82 percent are heated by stoves in the classroom, 30 percent have too few windows for adequate light on bright days. In 44 percent the school water, almost always from wells and streams, is "seldom or never tested." For another 27 percent the answer on that was "occasionally." On washing facilities, 73 percent had some without running water; 22 percent had none at all. In 0.8 percent of rural schools lunch is provided. In 18 percent one hot dish or one hot drink is provided. In six percent milk is available.

Apparently a lot of young Canada, when it grows up, will be able to continue telling tales of its grim, heroic struggle against the three R's.

The foregoing facts — plus the facts about schoolteacher salaries — make this one less surprising: Inspectors were asked to report on the mental health of the teachers in their charge. In 11 percent of the Canadian inspectorates 10 percent of the teachers were rated as "inferior in mental health," which presumably means nerve-wracked, frustrated, depressed, "mildly nuts." One Inspector said 60 percent of his teachers were that way. But then, that was only his opinion.

A LESSON FROM THE 'EX'

(The Richmond Hill Liberal)

A Richmond Hill resident who visited the Canadian National Exhibition carried away with him a vivid impression of the countless opportunities now before Canadians. To him the Exhibition provided outstanding evidence that there is and can be in the years to come employment for everyone.

If, and indeed, every thinking person who visited the C.N.E. must have recognized how almost unlimited are our demands and the demands of our neighbors for homes, furniture, equipment, personal requirements, etc. Human wants and desires increase as incomes increase. Folks want things that years ago they never expected they could have, such as machinery for the farm and labor-saving equipment for the home.

About the only limit to human demands appears to be the ability of the people to spend money. So long as folks continue to earn, workshops and factories will be kept busy producing the things they want, and as demands increase, manufacturing facilities for producing the things wanted will be increased.

Viewing the picture from every angle, there seems no ground to fear any serious or prolonged industrial depression.

In His Own Image

By J. JAY WATSON
"In His own image made He man."

Boys and girls reaching the age of reason may be said to be engaging in the art of sculpture on the human plane.

A sculpture takes a block of marble and with his chisel and mallet can carve out of it the likeness of a man. The child begins with thoughts in embryo, the power of observation plus the power called conscience. These are the marble in the rough, expressing themselves by a line here, another there and always, if the finished statue is to become a worthy one, looking toward creating among its contacts an atmosphere productive of happiness.

When we look at the rough marble, its potential beauty and perfection are hidden within. The sculptor with his tools makes it speak. The human statue has beauty and perfection within and the tools of gentleness, sympathy and creative culture with which God endows man will give to it expression that mirrors the Divine.

GROUP RAISES COST

In a recent issue of The Era and Express, R. C. Morrison, chairman of the Newmarket recreation commission, said that the commission had spent $75 for a loom for the handcraft group. Mr. Morrison said later that the amount had been placed on the commission's books so that a provincial grant of 20 percent might be had but that the money had actually been raised by the handcraft group.

Through the ages we have heard a great deal of leaders in the fine arts, in political life and in war. They have had, as far as I can see, two things in common: courage and vision. Some were good, some were not so good and some were definitely evil. But they all had these qualities of leadership. They could make men see with their eyes and hear with their ears. They had, whether it was good or bad, greatness.

During the last war, we had three men who led the standard of leadership, were outstandingly great—two good and one definitely evil.

Churchill and Roosevelt, lovers of humanity and champions of the underdog; Hitler, arrogant, hater of humanity unless with the German label, but able to make his followers see with his eyes. In the end, as it always will, the good triumphed but has lost us in these succeeding years in a world where old values, old ideas and ideals—and to be frivolous for a moment—old prices are in the discard and we are left bewildered, finding it hard to adopt ourselves to a world where fear seems to undermine all the intercourse of nation with nation. The atomic bomb and the Russian Bear do not seem to make for world peace.

Only Few Years

However, our discomfort has only been for a few years. Think of wandering in a wilderness, literally, I mean, as well as the wilderness of fear and doubt which uncertainty is sure to breed. I am thinking of Moses who led those uncertain, down-trodden Israelites out of Egypt.

He had to be an Abraham Lincoln with his unalterable belief that all men are equal and have the God-given right to freedom. Lincoln had vision and in spite of all the abuse that was heaped upon him, in spite of ridicule, opposition and at last, civil war between two parts of a country he loved, he brought his dream of a nation where all men were free to pass, although he paid the supreme sacrifice before he really saw "government by the people, of the people and for the people in its entirety."

He was the man of his era's hour as Churchill and Roosevelt were. All were crusaders—militant against a common evil—oppression of the weak by the strong—against the slogan that "might is right". Churchill the fighter, the fiery orator, symbolizing in his own personality the bulldog tenacity that Britain can show when driven to it and inspiring them to make a stand that amazed the world.

Roosevelt, suave, compelling with a personal appeal that made his listeners feel he was talking directly to them, a humanitarian who loved his fellows and whose goodwill embraced the world. A fighter, too, and with a vision of Utopia. Perhaps he, too, watches the struggle of some nations for power and some for survival.

Moses was the prototype of

SCENE OF RITES

A double-ring ceremony was performed in Richmond Hill Presbyterian church Saturday afternoon, Sept. 6, when Zilpha (Sally) Mary Topper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Topper, Richmond Hill, was united in marriage to Gordon Abbey Gardner, Toronto, formerly of Newmarket. The church was decorated with white and pink gladioli. Rev. S. W. Hirtle officiated. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Hirtle and Miss Marion Gibson, Newmarket, sang I Love You Truly.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white moire with a fitted bodice and a peplum extending into a long train. Her long tulle train was caught by a halo of orange blossoms. She carried a cascade bouquet of pinocchio roses and white 'mums.'

The matron of honor was Mrs. W. John O'Halloran, sister of the bride, wearing an aqua moire gown and carrying a cascade bouquet of dark red gladioli petals. Wilda Thivierge, St. Catharines, was junior bridesmaid in a gown of maize moire and carried a cascade bouquet of salmon colored gladioli petals. The attendants' gowns were made on lines similar to the bride's and their headdresses matched.

Mr. W. John O'Halloran was the best man and Mr. Peter Abram and Mr. Roy Sanderson were the ushers.

At the reception held at the Ridge Inn, Oak Ridges, the bride's mother received in an afternoon dress of smoke gray crepe with fuchsia accessories and a corsage of roses and gladioli.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Deeth, Claremont, Mrs. Arthur Deeth, Islington, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Jarvis, Stouffville, were Saturday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carr.

Boys Catch Gold Fish
As Fairy Lake Drained

By GOLDEN GLOW

If anyone was around the south-end of the town the latter part of last week, especially on Friday evening, they would naturally slip over and see what all the excitement was on the Water St. bridge. We were down that way so went a few steps farther to see the sight that is only seen "once in a blue moon"—the pond with all the water being drained off.

Yes, the sluices of the dam were open and our dear old Fairy Lake looked anything but fairy-like, or even a lake. It was just a horrible looking mud-hole. I think half the town managed to get there and see the pond while it was being drained.

Every so often the Office Specialty has to run the water off so they can clean out what we used to call the "mill race," which branches off at the north-east end of the pond, flows under the C.N.R. track and then flows in under the buildings and out into the creek beyond Timothy St. In the old days it was used to turn the wheel for a grist mill which originally occupied that site. Reesor's mill I think it was called. I understand it was a very busy spot till it was destroyed by fire. Somebody told me that the Office Specialty still keeps the mill race as an added fire protection.

Everyone There

Yes, I think everyone in town who knew about it, and could arrange to go and see it, was down there last weekend. If you did not go you will have to wait for a few more years to see it minus the water, for it is now filled up again. It is such a surprise to see it drained. You fancy looking at it from up on the hill, or from the corner of Main and Water Sts., that it must be quite deep. Maybe that is just a "hang-over" from our youthful days when we were always being warned about going skating on it too soon. All the same, there have been drownings there so naturally we thought it must be quite deep. One person living up on the hill said that from her home it looked like snow, but she knew it was just the mud glistening in the moonlight.

You think it looks quite a size when the water is in full, all blue reflections all over it from the sun, and little breeze. We love our old pond! But the comical part about it all was the small boys down below catching goldfish! There were big boys, small boys and even girls, all so intent on catching the beauties. Maybe you don't know our pond was full of goldfish—like a great big, natural fish bowl! In that cloud-burst in Aurora some years ago a goldfish hatchery was swept away and ever since then, all the streams leading from there have been the home of goldfish.

Just what the small boys—and the boys not so small—intend to do with their catch, I'm sure I don't know. But it was a sight to see them last Friday night with buckets and nets wading in without even taking off shoes and stockings. I wonder if the goldfish were worth what they'd catch when they reached home!

It was dusk when we were there and the fishermen were still busy below the falls and down the stream. It was such a pretty sight, the water rippling over the stones and the beautiful willows making wonderful shadows.

Goldfish Vs. Carp

As we stood there, Joe McCulley came and stood beside us—and it was from him I learned the answer to something that had puzzled me greatly. I said I thought the big carp had cleared out the goldfish years ago and to my surprise, he told me it was just the reverse. It was the goldfish that had cleared out the carp!

It seems that the goldfish ate up the carp spawn till finally there were none left. I recall years ago seeing huge carp that had been caught there. Our former famous fisherman, the late Tom Turan, used to catch them I know, for I've seen some he caught. I wish the present pond was like the dear old pond of our childhood days used to be, or is it that I looked at it with different eyes in those days. It was a source of enjoyment winter and summer. Believe it or not, but I have gone up pond in a motor boat. I'm afraid one could not do that nowadays!

LIBRARY CORNER

By CAROLINE E. ION

After many weeks of absence, we return to the Library Corner and this week consider two books greatly differing in subject matter from the shelves of the Newmarket public library. The Boy I Left Behind Me, by Stephen Leacock, is the author's recollections from his early childhood to his 20th year. Stephen Leacock had originally intended to write a complete autobiography and at the time of his death in 1944 had finished what were to be the first four chapters of this book. Those four chapters comprise this volume and are written in the author's characteristic friendly and confidential manner.

Farm Life Near Sutton

Many amusing anecdotes relating to his early life in England and on a farm near Sutton are woven into this conversationally-toned biography. The only regret of the reader is that the untimely passing of the author cut short this stimulating and amusing account of his life.

The general accounts of life in the Lake Simcoe district during the last part of the 19th century and the brief but descriptive references to Newmarket and Sutton will prove most interesting to the readers in this district. Leacock's usual wide vein of humor lightens the entire story.

The second book, Careers for Women in Canada by Gabrielle Carrriere, is a practical guide for any girl faced with the difficult problem of deciding her "life's work". Both these books are products of Canadian writers but whereas The Boy I Left Behind Me looks backward, this second book points the way to a profitable and satisfying future.

General information regarding necessary qualifications and applications for employment as well as discussions of every field of work into which women now enter are included in this book. Each occupation is dealt with thoroughly with the chances of advancement being considered. Lists of references where further particulars can be procured are also included. This is an excellent reference book and strongly recommended to the new high school students.

WINS AT C.N.E.

Aurora — Mrs. Adele Mulock, Aurora, won top honors in the jumper sweepstakes on Saturday at the C.N.E. horse show as she rode Justi to victory over a strong field. She had previously finished second in the Coronation Class and tied the same horse. Many of the horses that have been winning honors at the Aurora horse show were prominent among the winners at the show.

JAS. M. AYLWARD
MARRIES SEPT. 6

Rev. T. W. Hazlewood officiated at the marriage on Saturday, Sept. 6, in Humbercrest United church of Shirley Jane Chaytor, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Chaytor, Toronto, to James Marsh Aylward, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Aylward, Queensville. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long gown of white satin with a heart-shaped lace yoke and a bouffant tulle skirt with lace panel. Her embroidered veil was held by a white satin halo and she carried red roses. A cousin, Miss Joy Trenwith, was bridesmaid, wearing an off-the-shoulder dress of icelandic blue brocaded taffeta with a halo of taffeta and bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Wes Cunningham was best man. The ushers were Messrs. R. Stickwood and G. Potts.

The bride's mother received in a dubonnet rose dress with black hat and corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother assisted wearing a horizon blue ensemble with similar corsage. For the wedding trip to Haliburton the bride travelled in a beige suit with navy accessories. They will reside in Toronto.

NEW CONSTABLE

H. L. Puxley, who now preaches at the Roche's Point Anglican church, was for eight years professor of economics at St. John's College in Agra, India and the chief concern of his work there was the economic problems of the missionary fields. Mr. Puxley sailed for India with his wife in 1932, when he started his work with the missionary society of the Church of England.

In England, he was educated at Eton and Brasenose College, Oxford, and from 1929 to 1932 he attended Yale, obtaining his M.A. degree on a Commonwealth fellowship. In 1932 he was married in Toronto to the daughter of Judge Sedgewick and after the wedding they sailed for Agra (where the Taj Mahal was built).

In 1940 he joined the Indian army and was discharged in May, 1946, after which with his wife and three children, he came to Canada to make their home. At present Mr. Puxley is engaged in theological studies at Trinity College, University of Toronto.

While at St. John's College he was engaged in research with the aim of raising the economic status of the church. "The poverty of the church is as much an obstacle as heathenism," said Mr. Puxley. The principle behind his work was to tackle the economic problems first, before preaching.

No Change Seen
Mr. Puxley said that the political situation of India is unlikely to make much change in the missionary work. Indians don't consider missionaries as foreign imperialists and they are very appreciative towards the medical and educational work done for them.

St. John's was established 100 years ago and the prestige of the missionaries has remained high and will remain so, he said. It is not like the civil service where a person can not know the Indians as equal individuals. From a letter received last spring, from a professor at St. John's, Mr. Puxley said he learned that there had been riots in that district and a corpse had been found on the college steps; in spite of all this, students have been even more friendly towards the missionaries.

Mr. Puxley said that the British missionaries at present are having to cut very many of their foreign commitments just as economic and military aid is being curtailed. This is a crucial time for the Indian church, he added. However, Christian Indians are producing their own church leaders and out of self respect, are anxious to take the leadership. Foreign missionaries nevertheless are welcomed yet and very much needed as second in command to the new leaders.

Opportunity for Canada
The situation adds up to the fact that this is the chance for Canada to step in and take the place of England in its missionary commitments in the East, said Mr. Puxley.

He feels a strong national sentiment for Canada and says that it may seem at times that Canadians by adoption, like himself, are sometimes more enthusiastic about national development and prestige.

When asked an opinion of Nehru, Mr. Puxley considered him a great Eastern leader with both national and international vision and a man who would win a voice for the East in world affairs. Nehru has shown his abilities in international politics in the recent Pan-India conference, the east-Asia regional conference, which has been set on a permanent basis similar to the Pan-American.

Sutton — William Harris, 47, was sworn in as constable for the village of Sutton by Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake, O.B.E., K.C., in Newmarket recently.

Harris was born in Yorkshire, England, and came to Canada in 1914. He went to school in Zephyr, and then farmed. In 1924 he moved to Sutton, where he farmed until 1929, when he joined the Canadian army.

He received his basic training at Newmarket and was posted to Camp Borden, where he rose to the rank of sergeant. He was discharged in the winter of 1945, and has since been a civic employee of the village of Sutton. He is a member of the Canadian Legion and has played baseball, football, and has done some boxing.

Constable Harris married Isobel Dunn 19 years ago, and has three daughters.

KESWICK

The September meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of the W.M.S. will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 16, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Boothby. This is a recently organized group and is intended for those who are unable to attend the afternoon W.M.S. meetings. A cordial invitation is extended especially to mothers of young children as alternate meetings are given over to child study.

Miss Bertha Marrill, Richmond Hill, spent the weekend with her cousin, Miss Carol Boothby.

OF GARDENS, RADIO AND GOATS' MILK

By GOLDEN GLOW

Last Saturday, I was treated to a visit in another lovely garden—this time it was on the outskirts of town, north of our lovely cemetery. It was the joint garden of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Coombs and Mrs. Coombs' mother, Mrs. Frank Trusty. Any old-timer of Newmarket, like myself, will know if it is a garden of any of the Trusty family that it will be extra special, for the first Mr. Trusty, if my memory serves me well was a gardener in England before coming to our town. If I also can depend on my memory it was Mr. Trusty, Sr., who was gardener to Hon. E. J. Davis, and later to Mr. Aubrey and Mr. E. J. Davis, Jr.—and nobody can doubt it was a master gardener who looked after those grand gardens in the early days. So when I was invited to see the lovely garden of his daughter-in-law, and granddaughter I knew I was in for a treat!

What is that old rhyme about folks who attain results in this world, "They bend their backs and dig"—and I assure you that this lovely garden must have meant a good deal of work, for it is along the side of a steep hill. It has been laid out in terraces with fruit trees above, then the vegetable garden next, and divided by a wire trellis with Mexican sunflowers and amaranthus (Love-Lies-Bleeding) forming a floral hedge. Then comes a series of terraces with a central stairway of flat stones and cement. It is a mass of flowers of every sort, perennials and annuals. Sweet allysum and portulaca, dwarf nasturtiums, verbena and candy tuft on the edge and quantities of petunias of every shade, from velvety purple ones and the lovely Rosy Morn to long-stemmed pure white ones.

Wide Variety
I just can't begin to describe the different flowers—zinnias, China asters, marigolds—that seemed to be every flower that ever grew—and so few of us have room for, especially the large pink-flowered hibiscus that Mr. Frank Trusty planted, but was not spared to see flower. They are wonderful large, showy flowers, but are not very satisfactory for bouquets as they soon fade. However, outdoors, they sure are a handsome addition to any garden. They belong to the mallow family which are mostly tall. It has been years since I saw any. My aunt used to have them in her lovely old-fashioned garden.

This garden had more attractions than just the flowers and I know that that garden is a joy from early spring to late frost, for there were about 30 or more peony plants up along the hill, near the fruit trees—yes, and two charming little goats brousing there, adding a delightfully rural touch to a very pretty picture! There was also a large square sand-box for the wee chappie—and he played there happily as we later sat in the shade on a comfortable garden swing and looked over a huge pile of post-cards, from all over the world, for Mr. and Mrs. Coombs are greatly interested in amateur broadcasting, and Mr. Coombs has built himself a receiving tower. I won't display my ignorance any further as regards radio, but was I ever interested in those post-cards and the foreign stamps attached. Iraq and Iran, Morocco, Egypt, Finland and South Africa—oh dear what a delightful way to learn geography! Then when we went inside for a cup of tea and Mrs. Coombs demonstrated her radio receiving set, I was nearly speechless when her call was answered in a few minutes from Spain.

There was a high walnut tree in front of Mrs. Trusty's that grew from a nut her father-in-law brought from Sir Wm. Mulock's estate on Yonge St. when he helped plant Sir William's plantation. I bet they will have plenty of squirrels after the nuts, for we have several walnut trees near us, and little walnut trees are growing up everywhere, planted by the squirrels, and they fairly haunt our place. And one thing more, I was also treated to my first taste of goat's milk, ice cold from the refrigerator, and now I am not so sure Mahatma Gandhi isn't a connoisseur of good things for that glass of goat's milk tasted like the milk you get from a coconut.

"Just listen... to Suzy's
new engine!"

HER NEW ENGINE has given the "Suzy M." a new lease on life. Now she gets out to the fishing grounds in double-quick time, and the hours saved mean her daily catch is just that much bigger.

A bank loan made all the difference. And the extra money Suzy's owner is making will soon pay off the cost of the engine.

Local bank managers along Canada's coasts are eager to help their neighbours catch fish, by making bank credit available for the purchase of engines, nets and other gear. Not only do they take care of funds left in their charge but they also supply credit to local businessmen, sawmill operators, farmers, people in every walk of life.

THIS IS ONE INSTANCE OF how Canada's 3,200 branch banks play their part in the daily life and work of Canadians.

A STATEMENT OF POLICY

GENERAL MOTORS DEALER handling

CHEVROLET OLDSMOBILE
CHEVROLET TRUCKS

Shortly after the war concluded, and because it was of timely importance, we—your General Motors dealer—issued a statement outlining our business policy.

In the interests of our customers and the community as a whole, we have decided that this policy should now be reaffirmed.

It will be our continuing purpose, therefore, in all our dealings with you to adhere to the following principles:

★ We will abide firmly by delivered prices on all New Cars and Trucks, as recommended by the manufacturer.

★ We will do our best, having the responsibility of being the sole distributor in this area of new General Motors Passenger Cars and Trucks, to allocate them as fairly as possible with proper regard for orders placed with us and dependent upon the availability of models.

★ We will ask only reasonable prices for all Used Cars and Trucks—based on an equitable resale valuation.

★ We will make allowances based on proper appraisal and a fair valuation to purchasers who have cars or trucks to trade.

★ We will give purchasers the benefit of those accessories which are available, but delivery of a new car or truck will not be conditional upon the acceptance of accessories other than those desired.

★ We will charge only the established prices for parts and accessories, and not more than equitable prices for all types of services. When requested we will gladly provide the customer with advance estimates.

★ We will, at all times, strive to be considerate of our customers' needs—and to serve with efficiency, satisfaction and courtesy.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT YOUTHS REMANDED IN EYES' BREAK-IN

Newmarket—Two Newmarket youths, accused of breaking into and entering the offices of W. H. Eyes and Co. early Labor Day morning, were remanded for a week for trial when they were arraigned before Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake, O.B.E., K.C., in magistrate's court on Friday morning. C. H. Kerr, Newmarket, defending one of the youths, requested the adjournment on behalf of his client while Crown Attorney Arleigh Armstrong asked for the remand in the case of the other youth. Bail was set at $1,000 for each.

A youth, 17, of Woodstock was convicted of stealing a car at Aurora on August 24. Newell G. Depencier, Aurora, was the owner of the car. The youth was remanded for a week for sentence.

Depencier said he first noticed the car had been taken from in front of his home at about 8 a.m. on August 24. Constable John Evans, Hamilton, said that at about 6:20 a.m. on August 24 he received a call to investigate an accident in Hamilton. He said he found that a car similar in make and model to Depencier's had left the road and hit a tree. "The accused was lying on the ground to the rear and slightly to the right of the car," he said.

Did Not Remember

"There were no keys in the ignition and I found that the ignition wires had been crossed. The accused was removed to the hospital suffering minor injuries and when we questioned him he said the car belonged to his brother. He said he did not remember every time we asked any other question."

Wallace Cattell, Dundas, said he had been driving an ambulance in the opposite direction and had seen the car hit the tree but he could not identify the driver. He said he had been on an emergency call and had not been able to stop to give assistance but that he had noticed there was only one man in the car.

An assault charge against Bert McDermott, Beeton, was dismissed. Donald McArthur said that on July 26 at Schomberg, McDermott had struck him twice during an argument and that as a result of the blows he had required medical attention and his hearing had been affected. Willard Taylor, Lloydtown, and Raymond Woods, Schomberg, corroborated.

McDermott said he had argued with McArthur but that McArthur had thrown the first punch. "I stepped inside the blow and then hit him. I have a sickness in my face and I can't take a beating there," William Jordan corroborated.

Magistrate Hollinrake said the argument had apparently developed to such a pitch that it was hard to tell who struck the first blow.

Remanded On $200 Bail

Raymond Smith, Toronto, was remanded in custody for a week subject to $200 bail when he was arraigned on charges of stealing a watch from Harry Squibbs, Aurora, and two cheques from Mrs. Harry Squibbs.

Douglas A. Stafford and Reginald D. Baggett, Toronto, were each convicted of careless driving on motorcycles on the Newmarket-Sutton highway. Stafford was fined $10 and his license was suspended for two months while Baggett was fined $10 and his license was suspended for one month.

George H. Dawson, Woodville, was fined $10 and costs or 30 days when he was convicted of having an open case of beer in his car at Willow Beach. Constable R. Burbridge laid the charge.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT Gets Four-Year Sentence In Sutton Post Office Theft

Newmarket—Alvin Taborn, 23, remanded in custody for judgment last week following his trial on charges of receiving cash, postal notes, postage stamps, unemployment insurance stamps, money order blanks, registered mail receipt book, which were stolen from the Sutton post office on August 16, was convicted on Friday and sentenced to four years' imprisonment by Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake, O.B.E., K.C. Evelyn Hubbell, alias Evelyn Taborn, who was jointly charged, was found not guilty.

Alternative charges that the pair broke into the post office and stole the goods were withdrawn at the request of the crown. Arthur Maloney represented the two accused prior to judgment. They were unrepresented at their trial last week.

Chief evidence given against the pair at their trial was that of Constable R. Lewis of the Toronto morality squad who said that on August 18, in the company of two other constables, he had searched the room occupied by Taborn and Mrs. Hubbell and found all of the stolen goods with the exception of one money order, potentially worth $100, secreted in a suitcase and a drawer. Postmaster Clifford Thompson said $14 money order blanks had been stolen.

Evidence Of Wife
On Friday Magistrate Hollinrake agreed to Mr. Maloney's request that he be allowed to have Mrs. Hubbell give evidence. Mrs. Hubbell said the suitcase containing the stolen goods were found belonged to her common law husband, Taborn, and that she never used it. She said Taborn had put some of her clothes in the bag to help cover the stolen goods but that she did not know the stolen goods were there.

Mr. Maloney said Taborn had been in the army five and a half years, four and a half of which were spent overseas. He said Taborn has been convicted on three previous occasions of petty theft but had only served one 30-day term. He said that the post office break-in was not the type of crime which was common enough that its prevalence necessitated severe punishment.

Crown Attorney Arleigh Armstrong asked that a heavy penalty be imposed. "While it was Taborn's first high priced crime, it was also intended to be a cold, calculated, scientific racket," he said.

"It is not a common case," Magistrate Hollinrake said. "The average citizen has a great respect for anything which belongs to His Majesty or to His Majesty's government. It is difficult to impose the sentence which the crime merits in view of Taborn's army service, especially his overseas service."

Mr. Merland Deavitt, Aurora, spent the Labor Day weekend at his home in Sharon.

Mr. Percy Deavitt, Toronto, spent the long weekend at his home in Sharon.

HYDRA-MATIC DRIVE

Optional extra cost

The open road is calling! And lucky is the family that sets out from home in an Oldsmobile with GM Hydra-Matic Drive*. For here is a car whose smooth lines and smart styling fit right into your spirit of wanderlust. A car whose gentle coil spring ride means comfort every mile. And most important of all—a car that lets the driver enjoy the trip as much as his passengers!

Hydra-Matic Drive gets the credit for that. This fully proved, fully automatic drive provides a permanent vacation from all gear shifting and clutch pushing. Hydra-Matic Drive keeps you always in the right gear at the right time . . . automatically.

Oldsmobile is the lowest-priced car to offer GM Hydra-Matic Drive—one big reason why people say, "It's SMART to Own an Olds!"

To you who are waiting for your new Oldsmobile—our thanks for your patience . . . our tribute to your wisdom. The demand for Oldsmobile with the new GM Hydra-Matic Drive* is so widespread that it still greatly exceeds the supply. Make sure your present car carries you comfortably and safely through the waiting period by having it checked regularly by your Oldsmobile dealer.

SHOES

Insley's store has hundreds of pairs of shoes for men and boys. No wonder Insley's style leader store has such a shoe business year after year! This store is properly merchandised and priced correctly.

Mrs. Jackson has a list...

As Convenor of next week's church social, she has a lot of telephone calls to make. But she never forgets that hers is a party line — she spaces her calls so as to allow the other party to use the telephone.

Putting it into practice on every call you make is your best guarantee that others will do the same for you.

1. Keep calls brief;
2. Space your calls;
3. Give right-of-way to urgent calls.
